Join the City and The 519 in a public conversation on the possible redevelopment of John Innes Community Centre, Moss Park Arena and the park space around them. New facilities would be designed to meet the needs of local residents and people who use Moss Park.

We know that the existing facilities and programs are important to people who use them. The consultation will help ensure current uses, programs and services are preserved and at the same time develop shared community priorities for new programs, expanded facilities, partnerships and public spaces that help respond to neighbourhood and community needs.

How will your advice be used?

Over the course of the summer, advice from the community will be recorded, summarized and shared through website postings and meet presentations and circulated to all those who wish to stay in touch. A final report summarizing the consultation and the results will be made public and presented to a committee of City Council by the end of 2016. If the redevelopment is approved, local residents and people who use Moss Park will have more opportunities to shape plans for programming and activities.

How will the City and The 519 make sure all voices are heard?

Proactive outreach to communities who are marginalized and underserved is a key part of this public consultation. From now through September, the consultation team will be reaching out to local residents where they live and where they come together in order to begin these important conversations.

Will people who currently use Moss Park lose any programs or services as a result of this project?

The goal is to improve and enhance facilities, programs and services, not reduce them. Redevelopment presents an opportunity to evaluate current resources available, assess what local residents want and ensure these resources meet their needs.

What are the geographic boundaries of the site?

The area proposed for redevelopment is bounded by Sherbourne Street on the east side, The Armoury on the west side, Queen Street to the south and Shuter Street to the north. The site includes a public park with a baseball diamond, a soccer field, two tennis courts, a basketball court, a wading pool, a playground and community gardens. On the east side of the park is the Moss Park Arena and John Innes Community Recreation Centre. The proposed plan calls for all facilities and the park space on the site to be redeveloped.

When does construction begin?

There is no scheduled construction date set. The next step is to report back to City Council on the results of the feasibility study, including the consultation.
